August 18 – Dave Rogers, “History of Ball Aerospace, Part 2”

Dave showed the second half of the video about Ball Aerospace (originally Ball Brothers Research Corporation or BBRC) that covered its history from 1956-2006. Starting in 1973, BBRC starting working on SkyLab projects that included cryogenic technologies for the first time, as well as the Infrared Astronomical Satellite (IRAS), the first IR telescope cooled with liquid helium. With downturns in the business late in the 70’s, in the 1980’s BBRC started working on Department of Defense (DOD) projects with its System Engineering Solutions (SES) division. This included a relay-mirror project for the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) system and the EarthWatch satellite (now Digital Globe). The latter was used to provide battlefield information for the Desert Sands military action in the early 1990’s. In 1990, the Hubble Telescope was found to have defects in its primary mirror, and BBRC was called in my NASA to solve this problem. Ball Aerospace provided a solution of 10 small mirrors that increased the Hubble capabilities beyond its original design. In the 2000’s, Aerospace Ball worked on projects for the James Webb Telescope and HiRise telescope for the Mars satellite. In 2005, Ball was prime contractor for the Deep Impact project that struck a comet to determine its composition from the blast debris. The last part of the video was about the BBRC/Ball Aerospace culture over its history that allowed employee independence and creativity to solve very difficult problems that many said were impossible to do. Thanks again, Dave!

August 25 – Boulder District Attorney Stan Garrett, Boulder Director of Community Protection, Jane Walsh, "Speak Out for Safe Business"

Boulder County DA Stan Garrett (a graduate of Boulder High School and University of Colorado Law School) spoke to our club about the operations of his office staff of 72 as they pursue prosecution of criminals through courts and judges in the 20th Judicial District of Colorado. Over this past year, this has included successful convictions for 50 felonies involving domestic crime, drug dealing, public corruption, and economic crimes committed within Boulder County. The cases are tried using nine six 20th District judges who use six local courtrooms. He mentioned that judges are not being overburdened and cases are being tried without much delay. He also noted that the legalization of marijuana in Colorado has not changed the crime rate, and has helped reduce the black market in now having public sellers. (continued on back page).

Jane Marsh was born in Scotland and practiced law in London before moving to Boulder several years ago. She was named as the Director of the Community Protection Division within the Boulder DA Office by Stan Garrett in 2011 to defend victims of fraud, identity theft, telemarketing, sleazy construction contractors and auto repair shops, and illegal financial practices (such as ponzi schemes). Her division has been investigating about 3000 consumer complaints per year with the assistance of six volunteers who work twice a week in her office. Prosecution by individuals or companies is done through the Colorado Consumer Protection Act made into law in 2010. Jane mentioned her office is currently prosecuting an individual in Louisville who bilked an elderly person of thousands of dollars by gaining access to her credit cards. She warned everyone about construction crews who come to areas affected by floods and other natural disasters from out-of-state locations to make a fast buck. If you are aware of any attempts to defraud you via telemarketing, the Internet, or other means. Contact the Community Protection Division by calling – 303-441-3700 – or send an email to – jwalsh@bouldercounty.org. July 28-29, 2014 Bike MS Colorado Raises $17,084
-- Allison DeYoung, Bike MS Colorado Participant

The 2014 Bike MS Colorado was an incredible and awe-inspiring event complete with sore muscles, a couple of flat tires, and plenty of Gatorade. We are proud to report that on June 28th and 29th, Team Higgins & DeYoung had 30 riders jump on their bikes to pedal 150 miles in support of multiple sclerosis research. Our team, along with generous donations from our corporate sponsors, was able to raise $17,084 for this very worthy cause. It was amazing to witness what our team was able to accomplish by coming together in support of this common goal.

This year was particularly special as we rode in memory of Anna Scott. Our dear friend and teammate, Paul Scott, lost his wife Anna to MS. Anna fought MS for many years and lost her battle a couple months ago. If you'd like to get involved next year, just let us know. There are many options to ride and volunteer. The routes are anywhere from 25 to 200 miles, so there is a ride for every ability.

Update on 2014-2015 Monarch High School Key Club

This year's Monarch High School Key Club is off to a great start! A planning meeting held on Wednesday, August 18 before the school year started with this year's Key Club leaders co-Presidents Leah Matsumoto and Kristin Barbour, Secretary Ian Lee, and Treasurer Zack Berohn, and the club's Kiwanis Advisor Kerry Hassler, to plan this school year's events and activities. That was followed by another planning meeting with the Key Club's Faculty Advisor Kate Lunz on Wednesday, August 27. Then the first full Key Club meeting was held on Wednesday, September 3 that was attended by 19 Monarch High school students who signed up to be Key Club members. The first community-service project by the Key Club will be done in September. Our club will provide $500 to the Key Club to support its activities and Key Leader Program participation.
