April 14 - Sweet Dream in Bag Packing Event at Salvation Army Center

Here are some highlights from the packing event that we supported with Risen Savior Lutheran, Peak to Peak Key Club, and the Salvation Army. There were: 61 volunteers that participated, five Key Clubbers from Peak to Peak, 15 Kiwanians with family and friends. The Kiwanians included: Paul and his son, Gary; Dave and Jan; Craig and Robby; Rich and Kim with daughter & son-in-law; Adam with Zhanna and Adara; and Capts. Sherry and Mark. One hundred gift bags were packaged; the materials for each bag cost $50. Some volunteers were seen praying for the child that would receive their gift. Wayne and Susie said that it was the easiest set up and clean up location they had experienced. Thanks to Dave and Adam who helped transport the bags to the Fox residence in Littleton.

April 16 - Chris Mueller, Thoughts on 45 years as UAL Flight Attendant

Chris Mueller gave a very interesting talk to our club on her 45-year career as a United Airline Stewardess/Flight

Attendant. Following graduation from Boulder High School and two years at CU, Chris started her five-week UAL stewardess training class in Chicago in 1973.

Following graduation, she was initially based in New York City, where she primarily flew DC-10's from NYC to LA. Chris says that, as far as commercial flying is concerned, those were definitely the "good old days." They served two complete meals and the DC-10's and Boeing 747's had bar/lounges with swivel-seat chairs where they served drinks and fancy finger foods.

After about three years being based in NYC and then Chicago, Chris transferred to Denver, where she flew primarily domestic flights, with some trips to Canada and Mexico. Denver flights eventually expanded to non-stop flights to Hawaii and, for a few years, to Lima, Peru, which became favorite flights for her. When United started service to Hawaii, they hired eight Hawaiian Flight Attendants so they could have some Hawaiian atmosphere on each flight to Hawaii. One of those stewards became very special to Chris as he eventually transferred to Denver and flew for United until he was 63 years old. He had witnessed the Japanese invasion as a schoolboy on Dec 7, 1941. Chris flew the Denver - Hawaii routes almost exclusively her last eight or so years.

Chris had the honor of working the first flight into DIA when it opened in 1995. The flight was from Colorado Springs and was full of dignitaries, including legendary Capt, Jeppsen. Mr. Jeppsen originated the airplane navigational charts still used by essentially all commercial and private pilots. The plane parked at the gate in Denver, which was also full of dignitaries, including Denver's Mayor Webb, and was all decorated for the festivities. The only problem was that the jetway wouldn't work and they had to be towed to another gate.

Among the many changes noted by Chris over the past 45 years include change in dress from suits to T-shirts and thongs. She wonders why passengers can't at least wear clean T-shirts. Airline flight was a novelty and adventure for many early fliers, while today people are just in a hurry to get to their destination. However, the greatest change resulted from 9/11, where the boarding process changed from good-natured welcoming to profiling (a big no-no) boarders from potential problems to people who may be able to help in an emergency.

Chris' favorite flights of all were the 4 -5 military charter flights a year she flew over the past several years, flying troops on both deploying and returning home flights. She reports her mothering instincts came out and those flights were very emotional for her. Her final flight before retirement was a special treat, as she flew a Boeing 787 Denver - Narita (Tokyo) round trip, her first trip on a 787.

When Chris retired in Feb 2018, her Seniority Number was 31 out of about 1,000 Denver - based United Flight Attendants.
